Letter from the CEO and Board Chair

Fiscal 2019 was a year of profound change both within the industry and within the Foundation. We laid the groundwork for a new chapter of ambition and growth, with our mission and Impact work taking center stage. Our food system is facing unprecedented challenges and the Foundation is committed to marshalling the culinary community to help address it. Our new positioning, good food for good™, underscores that purpose, and informs all that we do.

In line with our refreshed strategic focus, a new senior leadership team structure was implemented. The Foundation also bid farewell to Marilyn Platzer who served as CFO for 12 years; we are deeply grateful for her commitment and leadership. Jodi Waterman joined as our new CFO in December, and we also welcomed a new vice president of development: Tamar Copeland.

The James Beard Awards were the most diverse ever, and we launched a series of systemic changes to the Awards that we believe will increase access, representation, and transparency for years to come. Our first live Twitter broadcast of the Awards garnered an audience exceeding 2 million viewers, of which half came from outside the U.S. We also “renewed our vows” with the city of Chicago to extend our relationship to 2027.

When women lead, change happens! We have doubled down on our Women’s Leadership Programs that support women in the culinary industry through every stage of their careers. An exceptional $1m+ in donations generated on Grubhub in FY19 from diners all across America is enabling us to empower more women to move into leadership and ownership positions across the culinary industry.

We support the Global Climate Goals and our sustainability initiatives gained real momentum in 2018: we tripled the number of restaurants participating in our Smart Catch program, and over 2,300 tons of red-listed seafood items have been removed from menus as a result. We also launched our multi-platform Waste Not campaign, implementing a series of initiatives to reduce food waste, aimed at both professionals and home cooks.

Over 80% of revenues went directly into programming. As we look to the year ahead, these programs are more critical than ever as every key indicator of the UN’s Sustainable Development Goals pertaining to food, agriculture, or nutrition are falling behind. We are so grateful for all your vital support in helping us address the many complex issues that affect our food system.

CLARE REICHENBACH
CEO, James Beard Foundation

FRED SEEGAL
Chairman of the Board, James Beard Foundation
For more than 30 years, the James Beard Foundation has highlighted the centrality of food culture in our daily lives.

Through the James Beard Awards, unique dining experiences at the James Beard House and around the country, scholarships, hands-on learning, and a variety of industry programs that educate and empower leaders in our community, the Foundation has built a platform for chefs and asserted the power of gastronomy to drive behavior, culture, and policy change around food.
The James Beard Awards are prestigious honors bestowed annually to members of the food industry, from chefs and restaurateurs, to designers, sommeliers, journalists, and authors. 2020 will mark the 30th anniversary of the James Beard Awards—in over three decades, the program has come to recognize not only those performing at the height of gastronomy, but also those who are creating a better food world.
51% of “Restaurant and Chef” awards given to women and/or people of color
For more than three decades, the James Beard House has hosted up to 200 dinners annually, featuring more than 500 chefs from around the country and the world. For many chefs, cooking at the Beard House is a rite of passage and a career milestone. The intimate setting allows for powerful personal stories. These unique dinners are an expression of the Foundation’s good food for good™ mantra and take place at the historic building in New York City where James Beard once lived, wrote, and taught.
food and beverage professionals hosted annually
The James Beard Foundation’s good food for good™ platform unites the organization’s reputation for culinary excellence with its efforts to help build a world where food is sustainable, equitable, and delicious.

The James Beard Foundation is marshalling the culinary community—chefs, restaurateurs, food journalists, entrepreneurs, and diners—to address our challenged food system and build the restaurant of the future.
The Chefs Boot Camp for Policy and Change provides an opportunity for civically and politically-minded chefs to become powerful change-agents. Participants receive advocacy and media training while learning about important issues, challenges, and opportunities facing the food world. More than 250 chef-advocates have participated, including James Beard Award winners Charleen Badman (Scottsdale, AZ), Rick Bayless (Chicago), and Renee Erickson (Seattle), who have taken their training to the halls of Congress to fight for food waste reduction, sustainable proteins, supplemental nutrition assistance programs, childhood nutrition, and more.

A Diverse Army of Advocates for Change
More than 250 chef-advocates have participated
Our Women’s Leadership Programs support and empower women building their own businesses in the food industry, from entrepreneurs to restaurateurs to chefs, farmers, butchers, and more. Through our suite of programs, including Women’s Entrepreneurial Leadership and Owning It, we provide resources, mentorship, and networking opportunities to overcome systemic economic and cultural barriers preventing women-owned businesses from achieving longevity and growth.

Harnessing the power of chef relationships with every aspect of the food chain, the Foundation implements programs designed to positively impact global climate change, including reducing food waste, supporting better animal production, and diversifying seafood consumption. More than 1,000 chefs participate in the Foundation’s sustainability programs, including Waste Not, the Blended Burger Project, and SmartCatch.

Established in 1991, the Scholarship program assists aspiring and established culinary professionals who plan to further their education at a licensed or accredited culinary school or hospitality institution, college, or university. The scope of scholarships offered has broadened to include all aspects of food studies, such as wine programs and sustainable farming. As of 2018, the Foundation will have awarded nearly $8 million in financial aid to 2,000 recipients.
$8M in financial aid to 2,000 recipients
The James Beard Foundation’s mission is to celebrate, nurture, and honor chefs and other leaders making America’s food culture more delicious, diverse, and sustainable for everyone.

Fiscal Year 2019 was a year of growth for the James Beard Foundation. As just one example, the Restaurant and Chef Awards, which were once again hosted in Chicago, experienced revenue growth of almost $1 million, resulting from expanded corporate sponsorships in support of the event. We are pleased that our partnership with the city of Chicago will continue through 2027. Other areas of growth included scholarship donations and Beard House events.

At the end of the fiscal year, we entered into a partnership with GrubHub. Under the terms of this agreement, we were the beneficiary of their “Donate Your Change” program for the month of March 2019, in honor of GrubHub’s RestaurantHER initiative. During the month of this program, GrubHub diners donated a total of just over $1 million to the Foundation’s Women’s Leadership Programs. Because this revenue was earned during the month of March, these funds had a direct impact on our increase in revenue and net assets for the fiscal year. The funds will be spent in the coming fiscal years and are restricted to support of the Women’s Leadership programs, such as Owning It and an Online Curriculum, an educational platform in development.

During this fiscal year, we continued to invest in Impact programs, such as Blended Burger, Chefs Boot Camp for Policy and Change, and Women’s Entrepreneurial Leadership, focusing on sustainability and inclusion, and in support of our mission.

We appreciate and rely on the generosity of our valued supporters, who help us to create a better food world through the empowerment of chefs and food industry leaders.
